New South Wales Life Science Directory

The Life Science directory is produced by the NSW Department of State and Regional Development and is part of the NSW Government's effort to promote biotechnology. The NSW Government launched its biotechnology strategy, called BioFirst, in August 2001.

Originally available on CD Rom, the most up to date version of this directory is now available online.

The directory profiles over 200 companies based in NSW engaged in biotechnology and related life sciences. It is distributed to a varied clientele; including the scientific and research community, venture capital market, business and investment sectors, government and the general community.

The information contained in this directory will be regularly updated and if you wish your company to be included, please contact the Investment Division of the Department on: +61 2 9338 6600.
