

HELP FOR BUSINESS

Help for Business

NSW is a great place to do business and the NSW Government is committed to ensuring the State is Australia's leading business and investment destination.

The Department of State and Regional Development (DSRD) actively encourages business growth by working with companies at all stages of their development. Business support programs offered by the Department include:

Investment services

Advice and facilitation for businesses seeking to invest and create jobs for NSW.

Industry innovation support

Helping innovative businesses commercialise technology and find new markets, replace imports and build industry strength through collaboration.

Support for small business

Advice, mentoring and support to help businesses at all stages of the business cycle to grow, expand and find export markets. The NSW small business website gives detailed advice on starting in and managing a small to medium sized business.

Export facilitation

Advice and support to help businesses develop overseas markets and achieve export success.

Regional development

Help for businesses to expand in or relocate to regional NSW, and to help regional communities plan their economic futures.

Tourism business development

Support for small businesses to help them develop tourism opportunities throughout the State.

TESTIMONIAL

"When we were looking for a regional location for our Asia Pacific network operations centre we were considering Hong Kong, Singapore and Sydney. We approached the NSW Department of State and Regional Development, which immediately provided information and assistance regarding Sydney. We have continued the relationship and made the decision to locate our network operations centre in Bond Street, Sydney."
